Lucknow: If you want to witness the beauty of the 100-year-old Lucknow University's Indo-Saracenic architecture from up the sky, then the newly launched virtual magazine 'Tourecdotes' is what you need to look at.

In a first, the sprawling campus of the university has been captured using drone cameras and high-resolution videos in the virtual magazine available on YouTube.

The online magazine made by the university's institute of tourism studies begins the virtual tour from the main gate of the campus and covers both new and historical places on campus.

The journey that begins from gate number 1 of LU travels through sports ground and captures Canning College of the colonial era and marvels of the Nawabi period such as Machhali Dwar and Lal Baradari.

One can also take a heritage walk of the campus along descriptions of the various historical buildings by accessing the magazine.

The sprawling campus of the university and its history have been captured using drone cameras. High-resolution videos of the entire campus have also been covered in the virtual magazine called Tourecdotes
