Getting in touch with our roots, our culture, in a nutshell, our history has a broader significance than we can even begin to fathom. To explore curated history in its material form is an addition to the rich experience of being one with our cultural past... Or learning about the histories of other cultures.

In an attempt to bring the International Students closer to the cultural roots of India, the University of Lucknow Meritorious Students' Council is organising a heritage visit. The University campus is proud to be a site of six museums, and the Meritorious Student Council hopes to take the international students on an educational excursion, exploring the less explored but fairly rich sites of the University, and help them understand the rich Indian culture, even more vividly.

From the distinguished Art Gallery and Museum at Tagore Library flaunting its collection of antique paintings and manuscripts to scientific reserves in Geology and Zoology departments, the students will take a serious stroll through 6 museums on the campus:

- 1.) KS Mathur Anthropological Museum, Department of Anthropology
- 2.) Ethnographic Museum, Department of Anthropology
- 3.) The Educational Museum, Department of Geology
- 4.) Dr. S.C. Baugh Museum, Department of Zoology
- 5.) Archaeology Museum, Department of AIH and Archeology
- 6.) The Art Gallery and Museum, Tagore Library
