Invited Talk on "How to Publish in a Good Journal" by Prof. Rajiv Manohar, Hon'ble Vice-Chancellor, Dr. Shyama Prasad Mukherjee University, Ranchi, at the University of Lucknow, Lucknow.

Lucknow: Tagore Library, University of Lucknow, organized an invited talk on "How to Publish in a Good Journal" on Friday at the Tagore Library Auditorium under the patronage of Prof. Jai Prakash Saini, Hon'ble Vice-Chancellor, University of Lucknow. The programme aimed to strengthen faculty members' and research scholars' research and scholarly publishing skills.

Prof. Rajiv Manohar, Vice-Chancellor, Dr. Shyama Prasad Mukherjee University, Ranchi, and Professor, Department of Physics, University of Lucknow, delivered the invited talk. Prof. Roli Misra, Honorary Librarian, Tagore Library, and Dr. Jyoti Misra, Deputy Librarian, Tagore Library, welcomed Prof. Manohar and emphasized the importance of academic guidance in promoting quality research and effective scholarly communication.

During his address, Prof. Manohar discussed the key aspects of publishing research in reputed scholarly journals. He highlighted the importance of selecting an appropriate journal in accordance with the subject area, scope, and objectives of the research. He also explained the different types of research manuscripts, including original research articles and review papers, and emphasized the need to prepare manuscripts in accordance with established academic standards and journal guidelines.

The speaker elaborated on the significance of the impact factor as an indicator of a journal's citation influence and encouraged researchers to consider multiple parameters, including journal credibility, relevance, indexing status, and publication standards, while selecting a suitable journal. He also discussed publication timelines and the various stages of the publishing process, including manuscript submission, peer review, revision, and final publication. He underscored the importance of realistic planning, originality, methodological rigour, appropriate referencing, and adherence to ethical publishing practices.

The session offered valuable insights into the challenges and opportunities associated with academic publishing and highlighted the importance of disseminating quality research through credible scholarly platforms. It also reinforced the role of academic libraries in supporting researchers by facilitating access to scholarly resources and providing opportunities for research capacity building.

Prof. Manoj Sharma, Prof. Mahendra Agnihotri, Prof. O. P. Shukla Dwivedi, Deputy Librarian Dr. Jyoti Misra, and all Assistant Librarians Mr. Nilesh Gupta and Dr. Amit Kumar Verma of Tagore Library were present at the programme. Ms. Priya Tiwari, Asst. Librarian, Tagore Library coordinated the event.

Through such initiatives, Tagore Library continues to support the University's research community by promoting scholarly communication, encouraging responsible publishing practices, and fostering a research-oriented academic environment.
